APA Databases® for Hospitals and Medical Institutions

Caring for the whole person

The mission of the American Psychological Association (APA) is to advance the creation, communication and application of psychological knowledge to benefit society and improve people's lives. Covering a wide range of health care topics like addiction, disability, pain, obesity and trauma, APA publishes a suite of databases that provides researchers and clinicians with an unsurpassed collection of indexing, rich full-text and video content.

APA Databases® – Exceptional Indexing, Full-Text and Multimedia Resources for Hospitals and Medical Facilities

Full-text articles and books, test instruments, psychology training videos and grey literature are all indexed using the the APA's Thesaurus of Psychological Index Terms so searches can get quite granular and precise when precision is needed.

Indexed results in APA Databases® through EBSCO*host*® link to full-text materials your library subscribes to through EBSCO. And, if you use EBSCO Discovery Service™, your users can search APA Databases, your catalogue and other materials with a single search.

The peer-reviewed, empirical content in APA Databases is indispensable for researchers. Whether searching APA PsycInfo's coverage dating back to the 17th and 18th centuries to understand the history of an issue, or looking for the latest on an emerging trend, APA Databases are current, with practical information and can easily be organized or shared with colleagues.
